Red and white bunting in honour St George's Day provided background decoration for the most recent network meeting of Congleton Chamber of Commerce.

There were also champagne and canapés for the members who gathered at the Pavilion in Congleton Park.

Another reason to celebrate was the presentation of certificates to some of the recent winners of the chamber's business awards.

Among those collecting their certificates was Jane Pickup of Style Counsel, who won the business person of the year award.

Others included Andrew Pear of Reliance Medical, Tobias Cock of Siemens, John Elkin of Myers and Co, Jacinta Atkinson of NTTX and Mark Slinger of Alexandra Court Hotel.

After being welcomed by chamber manager David Watson, delegates were advised of the programme of events.

The first was an exporters' breakfast meeting at the Alexandra Court Hotel that was due to be held yesterday (Wednesday), organised by United Kingdom Trade and Investment, a Government-backed group which helps exporters.

There is to be a seminar at Sandbach Enterprise Centre on Wednesday delivered by DBS training to give members an insight into maximising their networking skills.

The next business continuity seminar will be held at Cheshire fire headquarters on Friday, 16th May and Hammond McNulty and Myers and Co is presenting a seminar at Alsager Golf and Country Club on Wednesday, 18th June.

The chamber's annual golf day will this year be held again at Wychwood Park, Crewe, on Tuesday, 24th June and will be sponsored by Blue Bell BMW who will be providing the prize of one of their cars for a hole-in-one on the 17th hole.
